Certified documents

Certified copy is the copy of a document authorised, or stamped as being a true copy of the original, by a person or agency recognised by the law of the person's home country. In Australia, this means a copy which is authorised as a true copy by a person before whom a Statutory Declaration may be made. Such authorised persons include the following: magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Commissioner for Declarations, Commissioner for affidavits, solicitor, registered medical practitioner, bank manager, postal manager, an Australian Public Service Officer with 5 years or more service. Each copy of a document must be certified separately and must clearly show:

- the words 'certified true copy of the original';
- the signature of the certifying officer; and
- the name and address or provider/registration number (where appropriate) of the certifying officer legibly printed below the signature.

It must be possible, from the details provided for the AASW to contact the certifying officer if necessary. Please send the certified copy NOT a photocopy of a certified copy. PLEASE DO NOT SEND THE ORIGINALS OF THE DOCUMENTS.

Translated documents

All documents not in English must be translated by a qualified translator. If translation occurs in Australia these must be obtained from translators accredited with National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters (NAATI). If translation occurs overseas these must be obtained from a qualified translator (Private or Commercial Translators or the Awarding Institution). Overseas translations must be done on the organisation's letterhead and include an official stamp, the translator's name, signature and contact telephone number (all in block letters) legibly printed below the signature. The AASW reserves the right to contact the translator if required to verify the translated documents. When submitting foreign language documents, you must provide certified copies of all foreign language documents and certified copies of the English translation.

Agents

It is not a requirement of the AASW for applicants to acquire the skills of a Migration Agent to complete this process, however this is at the applicant's discretion. The AASW usually deals directly with applicants seeking a migration skills assessment of their international qualifications. Having said this, if you want someone, such as a family member or migration agent to deal with the AASW on your behalf, you will need to include the Australian Department of Home Affairs Form 956 or a letter signed by you, authorising the family member/agent (please name the person) to act as your proxy. The AASW will not discuss your application with other people (third parties) unless specifically authorised to do so.
