Donna McAuliffe is Associate Professor & Deputy Head of School in the School of Human Services and Social Work, Griffith University. She is author of a recently released book titled 'Interprofessional Ethics: Collaboration in the Social, Health and Human Services' (Cambridge University Press),

Donna has been a long time member of the AASW with responsibility for leading the review of the 2010 AASW Code of Ethics and establishing the National Ethics and Practice Standards Consultation Service.

1/2 day workshop – presented by Associate Professor Donna McAuliffe

Ethical Decision Making - more than just ‘gut instinct’

How will this training add to your social work practice?

Social workers deal with ethical issues, problems and dilemmas in practice on a regular basis. Knowing the difference between these is critical to decisions about when to draw in an ethical decision making model. This workshop will explore definitions relevant to ethics in social work, present different models of ethical decision making, and use case scenarios to assist participants to clearly identify competing ethical principles, with a view to reaching a justified and well-articulated position that is in line with professional responsibilities.

Learning outcomes

- Understand the difference between ethical issues, problems and dilemmas in social work practice
- Explore ethical decision making models
- Explore definitions relevant to ethics in a social work model
- Apply learning to case scenarios to identify competing ethical principles, with a view to reaching a justified and well-articulated position that is in line with professional responsibilities.

Meet the presenter

Donna McAuliffe is Associate Professor & Deputy Head of School in the School of Human Services and Social Work, Griffith University. She is author of a recently released book titled 'Interprofessional Ethics: Collaboration in the Social, Health and Human Services' (Cambridge University Press),

Donna has been a long time member of the AASW with responsibility for leading the review of the 2010 AASW Code of Ethics and establishing the National Ethics and Practice Standards Consultation Service.

Spaces on this course are strictly limited so register now to avoid disappointment.

Register Here